In effect, by postulating that each body part could be assessed on its own and shares a different value from the rest depending on its location, function, and use, the body parts were indeed traded, upon damage, as valuable goods. As a man between the ages of 51 and 70, your body becomes less efficient at absorbing nutrients from the food and drink you consume. Being in good health as you reach 70 and beyond allows you to spend more time doing the things that are important to you such as travelling, volunteering, caring for someone or catching up with. As you get older you need fewer calories, but your need for other nutrients remains unchanged.
